Biography: Ann M. Miller writes young adult fiction about first love and complex family dynamics. She is the author of the magical realism duology Captured in Paint and Illusions in Paint, as well as the YA romance A Heartbeat Away from You, which Publishers Weekly called “a stirring summery read.” She is represented by The Purcell Agency. Prior to writing novels, Ann earned a Bachelor of Journalism degree from the University of King’s College in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and spent several years as a media monitor and freelance writer. As a former literary intern, Ann is experienced in manuscript evaluation and critiques. She’s a self-professed book nerd who considers proofreading a fun time on a Friday night. When she’s not reading or writing, Ann can be found binge watching mysteries while curled up with her two Huskies.
