

Christine Hennebury

Pronouns: she/her

Email address: christine@christinehennebury.com

Website: christinehennebury.com

Region: Avalon

Willing to Travel: Yes

Available For: Readings, Speech Writing, Blog Writing, Ghost Writing, Workshop Facilitation, School Visits, Speaking Engagements, Interviewing

I am also available for creative coaching for people who have trouble getting started, who feel a bit stuck, or who need someone to bounce ideas around with while they shape their work.

Biography: Christine uses short stories, flash fiction, and her novel (in revision) to explore themes of community, belonging, and self-knowledge while her non-fiction encourages gentle creativity practices, engaging storytelling, and developing self-compassion.

When she's not taking to the stage or the stage with a story, Christine can be found writing, creating zines, collages, and small drawings, or coaxing someone to be kinder to themselves as they explore their creativity.

She teaches workshops on storytelling, writing and creativity for the general public, for groups of artists, and for business of all kinds.

Christine is the founder of the Association for the Arts in Mount Pearl, a past president of Storytellers of Canada-Conteurs du Canada, and a past president of the St. John's Storytelling Festival. She is the proud recipient of the City of Mount Pearl's Impact in Music, Arts, and Culture Award (2020) and the Mount Pearl Citizen of the Year Award (2011).

Selected Publications: Weekly blog post for Fit is a Feminist Issue, Stories Worn (April 2026), Writer Be Kind...to yourself (December 2024) in WORD, Hallozine 004 - Ghost Stories - Coin-Operated Press (October 2023) - One page 'comic' entitled Restless, Handkerchiefs (2020) - short story in the Elizabeth River Press Annual, Disconcerted (2017) - a self-published collection of flash fiction and short stories, and a series of creativity/self-kindness articles for CBC NL
<https://www.cbc.ca/news/author/christine-hennebury-1.4576603>