

Tracey Waddleton

Pronouns: She/Her

Email address: tracey.waddleton@gmail.com

Website: www.traceywaddleton.com

Region: Avalon Peninsula

Willing to Travel: Yes

Available For: - Manuscript Evaluations
- Mentorship
- Prize Adjudication
- Readings
- Book Reviews
- Workshop Facilitation
- Speaking Engagements
- Interviewing

Biography: Newfoundland-born author Tracey Waddleton splits her time between the island and Montréal. Her work has been published in Riddle Fence, NQ, the Cuffer Anthology and elsewhere. A finalist for the NLCU Fresh Fish Award for Emerging Writers and recipient of the 2015 Lawrence Jackson Writers' Award, Waddleton's work has been described as weird and wonderful minimalist dark realism. Her first book, Send More Tourists... the Last Ones Were Delicious, was published in July of 2019 and won the 2020 ReLit Award for Short Fiction. She is the inaugural recipient of the Quebec Writers' Federation Max Margles Writing Residency and is scheduled to spend a month writing in Dublin in 2022.

Selected Publications: Send More Tourists... the Last Ones Were Delicious, published by Breakwater Books in 2019.

Selected Awards: 2012 Fresh Fish Award for Emerging Writers Finalist
2015 Lawrence Jackson Writers' Award
2020 ReLit Award for Short Fiction

Additional Notes/Comments: